CENSUS, REAPPORTIONMENT BILL NOW LAW

MEASURE IS SIGNED BY PRES. HOOVER

NEXT DECENNIAL CENSUS TO BE TAKEN APRIL 1, 1930

DATA TO BE COLLECTED ON THE UNEMPLOYMENT SITUATION

By PAUL R. MALLON
(United Press Staff Correspondent)

Washington, June 18.—(UP) — Final agreement to recess for the summer tomorrow was reached by congress today. The senate will recess until August 19, the house until September 23.

The final action was completed when the senate adopted the house amendment setting Sept. 23 as the date for that body to return.

Washington, June 18.—(UP) — President Hoover today signed the census and reapportionment bill.

The law provides that the next decennial census should be taken starting April 1, 1930, and calls for enumeration of unemployed mines, agriculture and general population.

Under the provisions of the act the house of representatives will be reapportioned according to the shift in population during the last 20 years. It was estimated that there would be changes in 23 seats in the house, city districts gaining and rural ones losing in representation.

Approximately 100,000 temporary jobs will be made available on April 1 by the law. Positions of supervisors for the census will be filled by civil service but about 99,000 counters will be appointed by the director of the census on recommendation of republican congressmen only.

Washington, June 18.—President Hoover's special farm relief and tariff revision session of congress probably will recess tomorrow for two months, the senate returning August 19 to work on the tariff bill.

The summer recess is being taken in an atmosphere heavy with doubt as to what form the new tariff law will take. The way for the vacation was cleared late yesterday when Floor Leader James E. Watson defeated by a single vote, 39 to 38, the Borah resolution which sought to wipe out half of the house tariff bill and confine senate action upon it to agricultural schedules only.

Out of his pocket, unknown to any of the other leaders, Watson drew forth a peculiar resolution of adjournment, as soon as the vote on the Borah resolution was announced. He succeeded in getting a ruling from Vice President Curtis that the two months' recess resolution must be decided without debate.

The final vote on the recess resolution was 57 to 23, democrats and republicans flockng to Watson's support. It was his first victory after a series of reverses, but it was a brilliant one.

The whole proceedings, tense and bitter, gave an indication of what the tariff fight will be like when the senate resumes it in August.

By a single vote, 39 to 38, the independent-democratic coalition succeeded in defeating the Jones amendment to the Borah resolution which would have permitted the senate finance committee, now working, the fullest latitude in drawing a general tariff revision bill.

The issue was whether the house tariff bill should be accepted as the standard for senate tariff action or whether the senate would kill the industrial rates of the house bill, acting only upon the agricultural rates.

As the decision was reached by only one vote, may readily be seen that the senate will probably play havoc with the bill when it begins voting on the individual rates.

4 BOY PUPILS DROWNED WHEN CANOE OVERTURNS

Odanah, Wis., June 18.—(U.P.)—Four boy pupils of St. Mary's school here, three of them Indians, were drowned when their canoe overturned as they fished in Bad river. None could swim.

The dead are Lawrence Le Lille, 11; Edward Blanchard, 14, an orphan, and John Genery, 14, and his brother, Orville, 10.

Two companions, Bruno Mishler and George Gordon, both 15, nearly lost their lives in a futile attempt to rescue the quartet.

Thousands Flee In Terror From Volcano Blast

DISRESPECT FOR WOMEN NOW A SOCIAL PROBLEM

Chicago, June 18.—(U.P.)—Why young men don't respect young women the way their grandfathers did, was discussed by 350 students attending the national men students leadership convention at Loyola university today.

The students agreed that disrespect for women was a real social problem. After discussing the reasons for it the delegates issued the following concensus:

"That the girl who wears backless gowns, skirts that barely touch the knees, no hose and smokes and drinks is inviting the disrespect of man and that more often than not she gets it."

FRENCH FLIERS ATTEND ROUND OF RECEPTIONS

ARE HAILED EVERYWHERE IN FRANCE AS APOSTLES OF FRENCH FLYING SPIRIT

TRIO THANK AMERICAN PEOPLE FOR COURTESIES EXTENDED TO THEM

Paris, June 18—(UP)—The three French fliers who succeeded in crossing the Atlantic in their monoplane Yellow Bird from Old Orchard, Me., to the coast of Spain, continued today to attend the round of receptions which have been arranged in their honor by their fellow partisans.

They were being hailed everywhere as the apostles of a new spirit in French aviation. Laurent Eynac, French air minister, announced he would recommend Rene Lefevre and Jean Assolant, the two professional members of the crew, for the Legion of Honor. The third member, Armeno Lotti, Jr., backer of the flight, is not an aviator, but has taken up flying as a hobby.

The fliers thanked the American people through the Charge D'Affaires here, Norman Armour, for courtesies extended them while in America.

Loquacious Arthur Schreiber, the Portland, Me., lad who made the flight on the Yellow Bird as a stowaway, was busy signing testimonials, gathering a wardrobe suitable for a young man of his fame and position and referring all business offers for vaudeville engagements and newspaper articles to "his manager," Lotti.

Paris, June 18.—The French fliers De Marmier and Favreau took off at 5:19 A. M. today from LeBourget field in an attempt to break the world record for speed and endurance over a closed circuit, which was laid out between Paris and Cape Gris Nez.

OLD CAPTAIN STILL RIDING SWAYING STERN

CAPT. LOUIS JOHNSON DOGGEDLY KEEPS "LAST WATCH" ON FOUNDERED SHIP

LAUREL BROKE IN TWO WHEN STEERING GEAR GAVE WAY IN NORTH PACIFIC

North Head, Wash., June 18. — (UP) — Still riding the swaying stern of the freighter Laurel, which broke in two during Sunday's heavy gale in the North Pacific, Captain Louis Johnson doggedly kept the "last watch" on his ship today.

A lone mariner on a battered old hulk soon destined to become a ghost ship in the graveyard of the Pacific, the skipper bellowed his defiance at coast guardsmen who attempted to take him off as they rescued the last six men of his crew of 32.

Those six had remained on the drifting stern as it was buffeted about by the towering seas before the cutter Red Wing finally was able to reach them. They entreated the skipper to leave with them, but true to the traditions of the seas, he fought to remain with the ship.

Seafaring men believed he intended to go down with her when she finally breaks up.

T. D. Crocker, of Northern States Power Co., Addresses North Central Electric Body

"TRADING PLACES WITH ONTARIO" IS HIS TOPIC

YOUNG JOHN LOWEY, BRAINERD, EDISON CANDIDATE, INTRODUCED TO CONVENTION

MASQUERADE PARTY GIVEN IN EDGEWATER CONVENTION HALL LAST NIGHT

Breezy Point, Minn., June 18.—The Golden Jubilee of Light Convention of the North Central Electric Association completing its first day at Breezy Point Lodge Monday, has now close to 400 delegates and their wives assembled. President L. M. Pharis, of the Minnesota Power & Light Co., Duluth, presided at the business session held yesterday in Edgewater convention hall. A feature evoking much comment was John K. Televox, the mysterious mechanical man who was put through many stunts.

J. A. Hennessy, treasurer, Minneapolis, and John Lapham, secretary-manager, Minneapolis, made their annual reports. Other reports were made by C. J. Strike, Huron, S. D., on the commercial section; J. A. Colvin, Minneapolis, chairman of the engineering section; W. S. Hodgson, Duluth, chairman of the accounting N. C. E. A. section. Committees were appointed by President Pharis.

In the afternoon the golf tournament, blind bogey was played, Mrs. R. M. Howard, Winona, Wheelock Whitney of St. Cloud, A. W. Groth, Minneapolis, in charge. Trapshooting, quoits, horseback riding, lake bathing and other outdoor sports were in charge of John Clark, Minneapolis, E. A. Kefgen, Eveleth, and M. J. Kroeger, Minneapolis. The ladies bridge party was held in the lobby and was in charge of the chairman, Mrs. L. M. Pharis of Duluth, assisted by Mrs. C. S. Kennedy, Fergus Falls.

At the evening session T. D. Crocker of Minneapolis, assistant general manager of the Northern States Power Company, gave an illustrated address on "Trading Places With Ontario." He described the natural advantages of the Ontario system. The Niagara section is a congested group and he compared it with the Northern States Power division in the southern half of Minnesota.

"If the province of Ontario were compelled to build steam power and water power plants to serve their load with hydro conditions we have in Minnesota it would be necessary for them to have 113 water power plants to equal their present hydro facilities and to this would have to be added over 700,000 horsepower in steam capacity to supply the deficiency in the low water periods. This would mean that they would have to obtain over two times the revenue now collected," said Mr. Crocker.

"The industrial load is governed by the competitive cost of a private plant and therefore only a small part of revenue could be obtained from industrial users. Their municipal and lighting and power are but slightly lower than in Minnesota. The great bulk of additional revenue would have to be obtained from commercial and domestic users. The rates for these services would have to exceed the rates in Minnesota," said Mr. Crocker.

Young John Lowey of Brainerd, the successful Minnesota contestant in the Edison scholarship contest, was a guest of the convention and was given a seat on the platform at the evening session and introduced by Vice President T. T. Parker of Huron, S. D., who presided. John made a little speech and he was given the congratulations of the convention who hoped he might win in the national competition.

Miss Grace Straw of Youngstown, Ohio, noted soprano singer, then sang a group of songs.

The masquerade party in convention hall was in charge of Mrs. Clyde Morey of Huron, S. D., Mrs. G. O. House of St. Paul, and assistants, and prizes were awarded for the funniest costume, most original costume and best disguised costume. Music for the dance was furnished by McGrath's Collegians.

Today the election of officers will be held. The newly elected officers and executive committee will meet at a 1 o'clock luncheon.

The meetings today will be resolved into group sections including managerial, engineering, accounting, commercial sales and women's sections.

Resolution Introduced for Wisconsin to Manufacture Liquor

Madison, Wis., June 18.—(U.P.)—A constitutional amendment which would permit the state of Wisconsin to engage in the manufacture, transportation and sale of intoxicating liquors "to be consumed away from the premises where sold," was introduced in the state senate today by Senator Bernhard Gettleman, of Milwaukee.

TAKING HUMAN LIFE DEPLORED BY PRES. HOOVER

COMMENTS ON RECENT PROHIBITION ENFORCEMENT SHOOTINGS

LOWMAN REJECTS SUGGESTION TO DISARM CUSTOMS PATROLMEN

Washington, June 18.—(UP) — Taking of human life was strongly deplored by President Hoover today in commenting on recent prohibition enforcement shootings.

"I deeply deplore the killing of any person," the president said.

The White House simultaneously announced the treasury department was making a constant effort to prevent the misuse of arms by border patrol officers. The determination as to what constituted misuse, the president said, would be determined by "the orderly process of the treasury department and the courts."

At the same time the president called upon residents of border cities to co-operate with the government in an effort to prevent violation of American laws by international criminals.

"I hope communities along the borders will do their best to end the systematic violation of laws of the United States by international criminals," the president said.

The Minnesota delegation in the house at a caucus today unanimously approved a bill by Rep. Goodwin, republican, Minnesota, which would prohibit the use by prohibition officers of sawed-off shotguns or other weapons that shoot scatter slugs.

Rep. Knutson, chairman of the delegation, said no action was taken on the International Falls shooting affair although the matter was discussed in detail.

"My personal opinion in this promiscuous killing of innocent American citizens is rapidly bringing the prohibition act into disrepute," Knutson said. "I feel congress should compensate the surviving dependents of those killed or wounded by federal officers."

Rep. Pittenger, republican, Minn., introduced a resolution today which would authorize the secretary of treasury to pay $10,000 to Mrs. Virkula, wife of the confectioner slain by federal officers near International Falls, Minn., and $10,000 to each of the two minor Virkula children.

Sick King Appoints Commission in Stead

'SMITH-RASKOB-TAMMANY REGIME' SCORED IN MEETING

Roanoke, Va., June 18.—(U.P.)—The Virginia anti-Smith democratic convention opened in a blaze of denunciation of the "Smith-Raskob-Tammany regime" here today.

More than 1,000 delegates to the convention, the first of the "Hoovererats" in the south, cheered S. Owie Williamson, keynote speaker, as he assailed the regular members of the party for following their leader of the last presidential campaign.

INVESTIGATING ENGLAND'S WORST AIR TRAGEDY

PLANE WRECKAGE IS NOW BEING EXAMINED AT DUNGENESS

3 BODIES STILL MISSING, 4 BODIES ARE RECOVERED AND TAKEN ASHORE

London, June 18.—(UP)—An official investigation into the cause of the airplane City of Ottawa's crash into the English channel with a loss of seven lives—England's worst aviation tragedy in five years—began at Dungeness today.

Officials of the British air ministry and of the Imperial Airways, Ltd., owners of the plane, went to Dungeness to examine the plane's wreckage, towed there by the Ostend trawler Gaby. They announced after their arrival they would wait until it had been searched carefully for the three bodies still missing before proceeding with the examination.

Four bodies were recovered and taken ashore including that of one woman. They were Mrs. Ickerson; L. T. Malcogn, Hamilton, Ont., Alfred Smith, and Adolph Meister, New York.

The persons still missing were Mme. Bossinger, Miss Roberts and Mrs. Jaracki. Besides the pilot, Capt. R. T. D. Brailly, and the mechanic, H. R. Barnett, four passengers were rescued. They were Allan Fleming and Miss Marjorie Fleming, Mrs. R. B. Smith and Homer Taitham.

The Flemings and Taitham are Americans. Taitham refused to reveal his residence in the United States, but the Daily Express said he was from Minnesota and had been staying in London about a month.

The eleven passengers and two members of the crew were piled together beneath the luggage when the trans-channel plane made a heavy landing near the trawler Gaby, three miles off shore, and turned completely over.

Those farthest from the front of the plane were able to climb out and sit on top until rescued, but seven passengers were unable to reach the outside and were either killed by the force of the landing or knocked unconscious and drowned before help arrived.

NOLAN ASSURED OF 5TH DISTRICT POST TO CONGRESS

TO SUCCEED REP. WALTER NEWTON, NOW SECRETARY TO PRES. HOOVER

PRACTICALLY COMPLETE RETURNS GIVE NOLAN 4,000 LEAD OVER HOIDALE

Minneapolis, June 18.—(UP) — W. I. Nolan, former lieutenant governor and veteran Minnesota legislator, today was assured the congressional post from the fifth Minnesota district to succeed Rep. Walter Newton, recently resigned to become secretary to President Hoover.

Practically complete returns from yesterday's special election gave the republican candidate a lead of almost 4,000 votes over Elnar Hodale, democrat. Ernest Lundeen, farmer-labor, was far out of the running.

The vote: Nolan, 23,461; Holdale, 19,893; Lundeen, 6,976.

2,700 REFUGEES LEAVE JAPANESE ZONE BY RAIL

THOUSANDS OF OTHERS LEAVE BY FOOT AND ALL KINDS OF CONVEYANCES

MORE THAN SCORE OF PEOPLE KILLED SINCE KOMAGATAKE FIRST FLARED UP

Wellington, N. Z., June 18—(UP) —The known death toll of Monday's earthquake had mounted to 15 today.

Hakodate, Japan, June 18.—The Komagatake volcano burst into a new and more violent eruption at 10 A. M. today, causing thousands of persons to flee in terror.

The railways evacuated 2,700 refugees from the danger zone. Thousands of others left the district by foot and by every possible means of conveyance.

Official estimates today were that more than a score of people were killed since the first eruption of the volcano early Monday morning and that the list of dead might reach 100.

The electric plant at Isogawa was buried under ten feet of ashes today, according to reports reaching here.

NEW APPEAL TO TO PRESIDENT HOOVER

International Falls, June 18. — (UP)—A new appeal to President Hoover to "end the terrorism inflicted by customs patrolmen in prohibition enforcement" had gone out from International Falls today.

In it, the city council joined its "official voice in requesting an urgent response to the plea for help for our people."

The aldermen's communication, wired to the White House, followed one sent by a group of this border town's leading business and professional men.

Both messages were the outgrowth of public indignation over the killing of Henry Virkula, Big Forks confectioner, by Border Patrolman Emmett J. White, as Virkula, his wife and two small daughters drove home from here.

The councilmen also have demanded the ousting of Henry J. Sullivan, immigration patrolman, who, they charged, had "grown too officious." They complained he "exercised more than his lawful authority." Sullivan's activities are confined chiefly to International Falls.

Canadian Woman Menaced by Bullets of Coast Guard

Windsor, Ont., June 18.—(U.P.)—Chief of Police J. D. Poctor, of Sandwich, Ont., reported to the Ottawa government today that a Canadian woman in a speedboat near there had been menaced by a machine gun bullets fired by an American coast guard boat in Canadian waters early yesterday morning.

According to the police blotter Carl Raymond, Monroe, Mich., and J. O'Connor, New Port, Mich., were crossing the river at 3:30 a. m. yesterday with Mrs. Ellen Johnson, of Sandwich, as a passenger. Mrs. Johnson had been visiting relatives in Michigan.

United States coast guard boat No. 236 ordered the speedboat to stop, despite the fact it was in Canadian waters, according to Raymond, and when the order was disregarded the speedboat was sprinkled with gun bullets. One bullet struck Mrs. Johnson, another clipped Raymond's ear, while others shattered the windshield of the speedboat.

PREMIER MacDONALD TO VISIT AMERICA SOON, HE HOPES

London, June 18.—(U.P.)—Premier J. Ramsay MacDonald officially confirmed in a press interview today his intention of visiting Washington, if arrangements can be made.

"I believe a tremendous amount of good could be done by such a visit," MacDonald said. "The question is, when it can be made, and that will have to be the subject of an exchange of opinion."

INVESTIGATING ENGLAND'S WORST AIR TRAGEDY

PLANE WRECKAGE IS NOW BEING EXAMINED AT DUNGENESS

3 BODIES STILL MISSING, 4 BODIES ARE RECOVERED AND TAKEN ASHORE

London, June 18.—(UP)—An official investigation into the cause of the airplane City of Ottawa's crash into the English channel with a loss of seven lives—England's worst aviation tragedy in five years—began at Dungeness today.

Officials of the British air ministry and of the Imperial Airways, Ltd., owners of the plane, went to Dungeness to examine the plane's wreckage, towed there by the Ostend trawler Gaby. They announced after their arrival they would wait until it had been searched carefully for the three bodies still missing before proceeding with the examination.

Four bodies were recovered and taken ashore including that of one woman. They were Mrs. Ickerson; L. T. Malcogn, Hamilton, Ont., Alfred Smith, and Adolph Meister, New York.

The persons still missing were Mme. Bossinger, Miss Roberts and Mrs. Jaracki. Besides the pilot, Capt. R. T. D. Brailly, and the mechanic, H. R. Barnett, four passengers were rescued. They were Allan Fleming and Miss Marjorie Fleming, Mrs. R. B. Smith and Homer Taitham.

The Flemings and Taitham are Americans. Taitham refused to reveal his residence in the United States, but the Daily Express said he was from Minnesota and had been staying in London about a month.

The eleven passengers and two members of the crew were piled together beneath the luggage when the trans-channel plane made a heavy landing near the trawler Gaby, three miles off shore, and turned completely over.

Those farthest from the front of the plane were able to climb out and sit on top until rescued, but seven passengers were unable to reach the outside and were either killed by the force of the landing or knocked unconscious and drowned before help arrived.

NOLAN ASSURED OF 5TH DISTRICT POST TO CONGRESS

TO SUCCEED REP. WALTER NEWTON, NOW SECRETARY TO PRES. HOOVER

PRACTICALLY COMPLETE RETURNS GIVE NOLAN 4,000 LEAD OVER HOIDALE

Minneapolis, June 18.—(UP) — W. I. Nolan, former lieutenant governor and veteran Minnesota legislator, today was assured the congressional post from the fifth Minnesota district to succeed Rep. Walter Newton, recently resigned to become secretary to President Hoover.

Practically complete returns from yesterday's special election gave the republican candidate a lead of almost 4,000 votes over Einar Hodale, democrat. Ernest Lundeen, farmer-labor, was far out of the running.

The vote: Nolan, 23,461; Holdale, 19,893; Lundeen, 6,976.

2,700 REFUGEES LEAVE JAPANESE ZONE BY RAIL

THOUSANDS OF OTHERS LEAVE BY FOOT AND ALL KINDS OF CONVEYANCES

MORE THAN SCORE OF PEOPLE KILLED SINCE KOMAGATAKE FIRST FLARED UP

Wellington, N. Z., June 18—(UP) —The known death toll of Monday's earthquake had mounted to 15 today.

Hakodate, Japan, June 18.—The Komagatake volcano burst into a new and more violent eruption at 10 A. M. today, causing thousands of persons to flee in terror.

The railways evacuated 2,700 refugees from the danger zone. Thousands of others left the district by foot and by every possible means of conveyance.

Official estimates today were that more than a score of people were killed since the first eruption of the volcano early Monday morning and that the list of dead might reach 100.

The electric plant at Isogawa was buried under ten feet of ashes today, according to reports reaching here.

NEW APPEAL TO TO PRESIDENT HOOVER

International Falls, June 18. — (UP)—A new appeal to President Hoover to "end the terrorism inflicted by customs patrolmen in prohibition enforcement" had gone out from International Falls today.

In it, the city council joined its "official voice in requesting an urgent response to the plea for help for our people."

The aldermen's communication, wired to the White House, followed one sent by a group of this border town's leading business and professional men.

Both messages were the outgrowth of public indignation over the killing of Henry Virkula, Big Forks confectioner, by Border Patrolman Emmett J. White, as Virkula, his wife and two small daughters drove home from here.

The councilmen also have demanded the ousting of Henry J. Sullivan, immigration patrolman, who, they charged, had "grown too officious." They complained he "exercised more than his lawful authority." Sullivan's activities are confined chiefly to International Falls.

Canadian Woman Menaced by Bullets of Coast Guard

Windsor, Ont., June 18.—(U.P.)—Chief of Police J. D. Poctor, of Sandwich, Ont., reported to the Ottawa government today that a Canadian woman in a speedboat near there had been menaced by a machine gun bullets fired by an American coast guard boat in Canadian waters early yesterday morning.

According to the police blotter Carl Raymond, Monroe, Mich., and J. O'Connor, New Port, Mich., were crossing the river at 3:30 a. m. yesterday with Mrs. Ellen Johnson, of Sandwich, as a passenger. Mrs. Johnson had been visiting relatives in Michigan.

United States coast guard boat No. 236 ordered the speedboat to stop, despite the fact it was in Canadian waters, according to Raymond, and when the order was disregarded the speedboat was sprinkled with gun bullets. One bullet struck Mrs. Johnson, another clipped Raymond's ear, while others shattered the windshield of the speedboat.

PREMIER MacDONALD TO VISIT AMERICA SOON, HE HOPES

London, June 18.—(U.P.)—Premier J. Ramsay MacDonald officially confirmed in a press interview today his intention of visiting Washington, if arrangements can be made.

"I believe a tremendous amount of good could be done by such a visit," MacDonald said. "The question is, when it can be made, and that will have to be the subject of an exchange of opinion."

Hawkinson-Quinn

Beautiful in its entirety this morning were the wedding rites that united Miss Irene Quinn and Dr. L. F. Hawkinson in marriage at the St. Francis church.

In the church sweetly scented by flowers, before hundreds of their friends, the two spoke vows before Rev. Father J. J. Hogan who conducted low mass.

The bride, charming in her gown of ivory satin, entered the church on the arm of her father, E. J. Quinn, and was led to the altar surrounded by peonies, white roses and candles. A dainty Spanish shawl, a family possession, adorned her shoulders. Matron of honor was Mrs. Marie Booth Meyers, of St. Paul, aunt to the bride. Her ensemble was of flesh color chiffon with shoes to match.

The groom was attended by his brother, Ralph Hawkinson, of Minneapolis.

Dr. G. I. Badeaux sang "Ave Marie" and "Thank God for Love," accompanied by Mrs. Louis Knudsen at the organ and Miss Geraldine Kiebler on the violin.

Following the wedding ceremonies a wedding breakfast was given at the home of the bride's parents, Mr. and Mrs. E. J. Quinn, 611 Holly Street. Covers were laid for 81 guests. The bridal table seated 16; a profusion of color of roses and peonies covering the center piece.

The young ladies assisting at the wedding breakfast were the Misses Mildred O'Brien, Alice O'Brien, Elizabeth Murphy, Marion Bachelder, Jane Clark and Lois Chadbourne.

Out of the city guests included Mr. and Mrs. J. P. Lang, uncle and aunt of the bride, and daughters, Emma Jean and Geraldine, of Minneapolis; Mr. and Mrs. Michael R. Cashman of Owatonna, uncle and aunt of the bride; Mrs. Margaret Malloy, grandmother of the bride, St. Paul; Mrs. D. B. McGuire and daughter, Laura, Northfield; Mr. and Mrs. L. J. Keating of Graceville, Minn.; Miss Eleanor McHenry of Patterson, N. J., Mr. and Mrs. F. M. Flaherty of Morris, Dr. and Mrs. Thornson of Rochester, Minn.

Ushers were Ralph Lawler of Rochester, Minn., and Joseph Dunn, Brainerd.

The bride's travelling ensemble was fawn colored coat with an Alaskan fox collar, dress in tan, shoes in snakeskin and felt hat.

The couple motored to St. Cloud where they leave on a two weeks' trip to the west coast, stopping at Portland, Ore., Seattle, Wash., and Vancouver, B. C. On their return they will make their home at 610 Grove street.

Mrs. Hawkinson is a member of the Alpha Beta Phi sorority. She received her Bachelor of Arts degree at Columbia university, New York. She was instructor at Carleton college, Northfield, for the past three years.

Dr. Hawkinson is the son of Dr. and Mrs. A. E. Hawkinson of Litchfield, Minn. He is an associate at the Brainerd Clinic.

BRAINERD LADIES BAND TO BROADCAST ON KSTP

Has Received Special Request to Broadcast Half-Hour Program Over St. Paul Station

FRIDAY AFTERNOON, JUNE 21

KSTP Also Will Broadcast the Huge Parade on St. Paul's Streets Friday Evening

The Brainerd Ladies' Band is about to realize an ambition fostered by most musical organizations—that of broadcasting a program over a radio station.

Since the band's entry into the state band contest at St. Paul on June 21, 22 and 23 was announced, many requests have been received from St. Paul firms and organizations to play at various places. As many of these requests as it is possible to arrange have been granted. The latest invitation, and perhaps the most interesting one to Brainerd and the band, is a request that the Ladies' Band broadcast a program over radio station KSTP on Friday, June 21, and the time has been tentatively set for 1:45 to 2:15 P. M.

The following excerpt was taken from a letter from Carl Dillon, chairman, Minnesota Music Festival and State Band Contest, St. Paul:

"We also have a special request that the Brainerd Ladies' Band broadcast a program over station KSTP on Friday afternoon, June 21, from 1:45 to 2:15 P. M., and would like to have you come prepared to play this program."

The ladies have answered the request in the affirmative and have prepared a program. Brainerd will receive the widest publicity over this achievement and the ladies are very enthused over the honor accorded them.

A number of years ago local talent gave a radio program over WCCO. Quite a number participated, and the broadcast included speakers, singers and musicians of real real ability from this city. However, it appears the Brainerd Ladies' Band is to have the honor of being the first musical organization from this city to broadcast an entire program of its own unassisted.

Some of the members of the band will leave Thursday, the remainder on Friday morning. All arrangements have been completed for the entertainments of the bands while in St. Paul.

It is understood that KSTP also will broadcast the huge parade of 40 bands beginning at 7 P. M. Friday evening. Brainerd's radio sets will be tuned in at that time to hear its local representatives, the Brainerd-Crosby Ore Diggers and the Brainerd Ladies' Band.

BRAINERD 25 YEARS AGO

From the Daily Dispatch

June 18, 1904

Walter Allen, who has been visiting with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. George Allen, left this afternoon for Devils Lake, N. D., where he will play in the North Dakota state band during the military encampment. After he concludes his engagement there he will return to Fargo where he has taken a position in a large machinery house for the summer. He will take up his studies next year again at the North Dakota Agricultural college at Fargo.

Mr. and Mrs. J. B. Parker and Mrs. E. C. Tennis of South Tacoma who has been visiting at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Judd Wright, left today for Park Rapids for a short visit.

Supt. Hartley of the city schools, returned this afternoon from a trip south.

John Curra, a balloonist, was quite seriously injured this morning at Staples where he had been engaged by the Woodmen picnic to give an ascension each day. He was out as usual, getting up about 200 feet when in some manner he got tangled in the ropes of the parachute. He was unconscious when picked up but latest reports are that he may recover.

Auditor A. Mahlum and M. J. Quam, of Walker, returned this afternoon from St. Louis where they have been doing the big fair.

R. E. Masters has made claim to being the champion fisherman. In 14 hours, he caught 131 black bass, nine rock bass, two great northern pike and 1 pickerel. These were caught in three days, the total time on the lake totaling 14 hours. The fishing was done at Ten Mile Lake.

The ambition of builders of riding devices has ever been to construct the one which produces the most "Thrills without Spills." The limit seems to have been reached by the builders of the Dragon, shown above, which is the only portable one ever constructed and the biggest and heaviest ride carried by any show in the world. A crew of 20 men is required to erect and operate the Dragon. Seven huge wagons and two of the show trains 72 foot long all steel cars are required to transport it. Built at a cost of $75,000 the Dragon is replete with thrills and is sure to be a popular attraction. With a frontage of over a hundred feet and towering into the air, this enormous replica of the Sacred Dragon of Chinese mythology, provides safe passage over the river Styx as it twists and writhes in lifelike reproduction of the gyrations of the enormous monster which it represents. All attractions for the Legion spring celebration are ready for the big opening tonight at 7:30 o'clock. The location is Ilse Field. Continuous bus service will be maintained and ample free parking space will be found which will be policed by Legionnaires.

Deputy Sheriffs Arrest William McLean Wihle at Lunch Near Still in Operation

Jenkins Man Bound Over to District Court; Also Under Federal Bonds

William McClean who lives near Jenkins, now under bond to appear in Duluth to answer liquor charges under federal jurisdiction was arraigned in municipal court here this morning on a new charge, that of manufacturing intoxicating liquor.

McClean waived examination and was ordered bound over to the district court by Judge J. H. Warner. The defendant indicated that he wished to appear before a district court judge as early as possible and enter a plea o fguilty. He was unabel to meet bonds of $500.

The man was arrested Saturday noon 15 miles from Jenkins by Deputy Sheriffs Charles Oberg and Sam Bloomstrom who surprised McClean eating his dinner beside a 30 gallon still. The still was in operation at the time with two fires burning. Five gallons of moonshine whiskey and the still were seized for evidence.

Sheriff Claus Theorin stated today that McClean was an old liquor law violator. He said he received information that McClean disposed of his liquor at Pine River.

MINNESOTA AS VACATION LAND

H. C. HOTALING, executive secretary of the Ten Thousand Lakes-Greater Minnesota association, was in Brainerd Saturday on his return from the Northern Minnesota Editorial Association convention at Breezy Point Lodge and referred to the state as offering to the vacationist better and more extensive advantages than ever before.

Better accommodations have been developed in recent years to take care of the ever increasing flood of tourists, better roads have been built and better facilities for outdoor sports such as golf, tennis, motor boating and horse back riding, are now being offered.

Less than 10 years ago Minnesota's summer places were primarily fishing resorts. A few had golf courses, some had tennis courts and some had saddle horses, but generally they catered to anglers. As the tourist business developed, resort owners discovered that a good golf course was a distinct attraction and as a result many were constructed. In many instances communities built golf courses and found that the fees of tourists helped to a great extent in relieving the financial load. Saddle horses were found to be popular and several resorts established bridle trails through the woods. Tennis courts will be found almost everywhere today and most resorts are now equipped with diving boards, water wheels, water toboggans or other beach equipment demanded by bathers.

Water sports have been developed to considerable extent throughout the state with the growth of the tourist business. Sea sleds and speed boats are now found on many lakes. There are few resorts that cannot offer outboard motors to their guests and rowboats and canoes can be found everywhere.

In the evolution plan of Minnesota's resorts has come dancing and other entertainment. While there are of course still plenty of fishing resorts, there are those places where the people who do not care to fish may go; where you take your best clothes along and spend the evening dancing to the music of a good orchestra rather than lashing through the dusk with a fishing plug.

Golf, dancing and horseback riding have all been developed at Minnesota resorts in recent years to take care of the ever increasing throngs who would rather indulge in those sports than fish. Fishing today is probably better, taking the state as a whole, than it has been for many years. Fishing resorts have been improved and offer better accommodations than they did a few years ago.

Good roads have made most parts of the state of easy access from Minneapolis. There are those places, of course, which have been kept inaccessible to the automobile. Such places have been developed especially for the pleasure of canoeists and as a result Minnesota boasts the finest canoe trails in the world. Minnesota's canoe country is becoming more popular each year with tourists from other states who want to get away from civilization and its environs. Here it is possible to travel for days or even weeks by canoe without seeing anyone except the members of one's own party. Fishing is excellent in these wilderness waters and there are splendid opportunities to photograph both large and small game.

For the benefit of those who desire to camp instead of staying at resorts, tourist camps have been established throughout the state. Housekeeping cottages owned by private individuals and resorts can be found throughout the lake regions. In fact, Minnesota offers everything that might be desired for a summer vacation.

SCHILLING FOR FARM BOARD

GOVERNOR CHRISTIANSON has recommended the appointment of W. F. Schilling of Northfield, prominent in Minnesota cooperative organizations, as a member of the farm board to be appointed by President Hoover to carry out the provisions of the farm bill signed Saturday.

Mr. Schilling was pointed out as outstanding in agricultural cooperation, having been identified with many such enterprises in the Northwest.

He is president of the Twin City Milk Producers association and a member of the board of the Land O' Lakes Creameries, the two great dairying cooperative enterprises in the Northwest. Mr. Schilling operates a dairy farm at Northfield. He is a Republican and was an enthusiastic supporter of Herbert Hoover in his campaign for the presidency.

Herman Roe, Northfield editor, and other Southern Minnesota newspapermen spoke very highly of Mr. Schilling and agreed he would be a good man on the farm board.

USING OLD CRANK CASE OIL

USED crank case oil is generally discarded as being of no use. Some have poured it on cinder paving at the garage entrance and used the oil as a binder.

But it has remained for J. E. Shoberg, who farms near Rosewood, to try a new experiment. One gallon of used crank case oil, boiled together with five pounds of common hardware ochre, has produced what is said to be a very satisfactory paint, says Mr. Shoberg, who conducted the experiment on his farm. The paint used on various wood and metal surfaces will be exposed to various tests and conditions to determine its durability. Shoberg believes he has found an excellent use for a present waste product.

WE have read Brisbane's comments as well as those of Grove Patterson. The latter appear the more philosophical. They do not, however, attain as widespread publicity as do the writings of Brisbane.

THE Fort Snelling "war" maneuvers will soon be carried on in the Mille Lacs lake region. After they are all through, the Blues "fighting" their opponents, the soldiers will enjoy four days of recreation at the lake.

SOME sidewalks with improper grades are being restored to No. 1 conditions. Several such improvements are being made in the business section of town.

SOME scarlet fever cases are reported in town and countryside. It is to be regretted that such a visitation comes just when the children wish to enjoy their vacation period.

WHEN General Humidity is in the saddle one feels the heat more keenly. A hot, sticky day is trying on the nerves.

Whirl of Modern Life Demands More of Women

Wholesome Outdoor Life Fulfills the Need, Says Explorer

MRS. CARL AKELEY

"TO SAY that the modern girl is not the girl of our grandmother's day is to speak the truth," says Mrs. Carl Akeley, widow of Carl Akeley, famous African explorer, and herself a noted mountain climber and explorer.

"What is more, the girls themselves would not want to be. The new freedom of their sex in the world of business and sport has given rise to many new and difficult problems which modern educators are only just beginning to fathom.

"With this change in their requirements the young and growing girl needs a rugged physique, not necessarily of the muscular type, but built on a solid foundation. This activity of the modern girl has to a great degree replaced the former cultivation of purely social charms which were the 'open sesame' of a generation ago."

No better example can be found than that supplied by the experiences of Mrs. Akeley herself, through which she gained the outdoor knowledge which she is passing on to so many growing girls in her summer camp activities.

At a time when few of the so-called weaker sex were active in the harder phases of the outdoors Mrs. Akeley, then Mary L. Jobe, was carving a niche for herself second to none in mountain climbing and exploration throughout the rugged peaks in the Canadian Rockies of British Columbia. She went "north of fifty-three" to study the Gitskan and Carrier Indians in their primitive villages. On one trip, exploring Mt. Sir Alexander, Mrs. Akeley packed her own outfit over 12 high passes ranging from 5,000 to 8,000 feet elevation, experiencing temperatures as low as 60 degrees below zero.

She has proved conclusively that even under unusual circumstances physical well-being out-of-doors can be assured if proper intelligence and experience are used.

Her early outdoor work and training stood her in good stead during the 1926-27 African Hall expedition with her husband, Carl Akeley, in Kenya and the giraffe country of Northern Frontier; in the lion country of Tanganyika, and in the gorilla sanctuary of the Kivu. When Mr. Akeley died of fever in the heart of the Belgian Congo she found herself burdened with the responsibility of completing the work undertaken and bringing the expedition back to civilization. That this was well and successfully accomplished is further tribute to the tremendous reserve of power and energy which her former outdoor life had built up in her.

Mary L. Jobe Akeley now stands at the top of her chosen field and gives freely and unstintingly of her wealth of outdoor knowledge to the modern girls. She knows that in the present day there is no attribute which will be of greater value to them than a well-founded fund of energy to meet modern emergencies, built on the foundation of sturdy bodies nurtured in outdoor life.

Live life to the full

This is the most amazing century in the history of the world. Within the brief span of twenty-five years man has learned to fly, to talk across space, to see through living bodies. No one knows what miracles the next quarter of a century will produce.

But it is not in these more spectacular inventions alone that human progress has leaped ahead.

Since the dawn of civilization women have aged faster than men. The deadly monotonous routine and drudgery of housekeeping has borne them down.

But modern science has taken away the chief causes of drudgery. Through advertising, women by the millions have found a way to have water, light, heat, cold . . . at the touch of a finger. No woman of even the most modest means need be a drudge today if she reads advertising.

It is advertising that has stimulated an overwhelming demand for these newer, better things of life. And this demand has made possible tremendous new industries furnishing well-paid work for millions of men. An endless circle that has made the average American family today the healthiest, happiest and most prosperous in all the world.

Read advertising. Don't miss the new things—live life to the full.

MINNESOTA AS VACATION LAND

H. C. HOTALING, executive secretary of the Ten Thousand Lakes-Greater Minnesota association, was in Brainerd Saturday on his return from the Northern Minnesota Editorial Association convention at Breezy Point Lodge and referred to the state as offering to the vacationist better and more extensive advantages than ever before.

Better accommodations have been developed in recent years to take care of the ever increasing flood of tourists, better roads have been built and better facilities for outdoor sports such as golf, tennis, motor boating and horse back riding, are now being offered.

Less than 10 years ago Minnesota's summer places were primarily fishing resorts. A few had golf courses, some had tennis courts and some had saddle horses, but generally they catered to anglers. As the tourist business developed, resort owners discovered that a good golf course was a distinct attraction and as a result many were constructed. In many instances communities built golf courses and found that the fees of tourists helped to a great extent in relieving the financial load. Saddle horses were found to be popular and several resorts established bridle trails through the woods. Tennis courts will be found almost everywhere today and most resorts are now equipped with diving boards, water wheels, water toboggans or other beach equipment demanded by bathers.

Water sports have been developed to considerable extent throughout the state with the growth of the tourist business. Sea sleds and speed boats are now found on many lakes. There are few resorts that cannot offer outboard motors to their guests and rowboats and canoes can be found everywhere.

In the evolution plan of Minnesota's resorts has come dancing and other entertainment. While there are of course still plenty of fishing resorts, there are those places where the people who do not care to fish may go; where you take your best clothes along and spend the evening dancing to the music of a good orchestra rather than lashing through the dusk with a fishing plug.

Golf, dancing and horseback riding have all been developed at Minnesota resorts in recent years to take care of the ever increasing throngs who would rather indulge in those sports than fish. Fishing today is probably better, taking the state as a whole, than it has been for many years. Fishing resorts have been improved and offer better accommodations than they did a few years ago.

Good roads have made most parts of the state of easy access from Minneapolis. There are those places, of course, which have been kept inaccessible to the automobile. Such places have been developed especially for the pleasure of canoeists and as a result Minnesota boasts the finest canoe trails in the world. Minnesota's canoe country is becoming more popular each year with tourists from other states who want to get away from civilization and its environs. Here it is possible to travel for days or even weeks by canoe without seeing anyone except the members of one's own party. Fishing is excellent in these wilderness waters and there are splendid opportunities to photograph both large and small game.

For the benefit of those who desire to camp instead of staying at resorts, tourist camps have been established throughout the state. Housekeeping cottages owned by private individuals and resorts can be found throughout the lake regions. In fact, Minnesota offers everything that might be desired for a summer vacation.

SCHILLING FOR FARM BOARD

GOVERNOR CHRISTIANSON has recommended the appointment of W. F. Schilling of Northfield, prominent in Minnesota cooperative organizations, as a member of the farm board to be appointed by President Hoover to carry out the provisions of the farm bill signed Saturday.

Mr. Schilling was pointed out as outstanding in agricultural cooperation, having been identified with many such enterprises in the Northwest.

He is president of the Twin City Milk Producers association and a member of the board of the Land O' Lakes Creameries, the two great dairying cooperative enterprises in the Northwest. Mr. Schilling operates a dairy farm at Northfield. He is a Republican and was an enthusiastic supporter of Herbert Hoover in his campaign for the presidency.

Herman Roe, Northfield editor, and other Southern Minnesota newspapermen spoke very highly of Mr. Schilling and agreed he would be a good man on the farm board.

USING OLD CRANK CASE OIL

USED crank case oil is generally discarded as being of no use. Some have poured it on cinder paving at the garage entrance and used the oil as a binder.

But it has remained for J. E. Shoberg, who farms near Rosewood, to try a new experiment. One gallon of used crank case oil, boiled together with five pounds of common hardware ochre, has produced what is said to be a very satisfactory paint, says Mr. Shoberg, who conducted the experiment on his farm. The paint used on various wood and metal surfaces will be exposed to various tests and conditions to determine its durability. Shoberg believes he has found an excellent use for a present waste product.

WE have read Brisbane's comments as well as those of Grove Patterson. The latter appear the more philosophical. They do not, however, attain as widespread publicity as do the writings of Brisbane.

THE Fort Snelling "war" maneuvers will soon be carried on in the Mille Lacs lake region. After they are all through, the Blues "fighting" their opponents, the soldiers will enjoy four days of recreation at the lake.

SOME sidewalks with improper grades are being restored to No. 1 conditions. Several such improvements are being made in the business section of town.

SOME scarlet fever cases are reported in town and countryside. It is to be regretted that such a visitation comes just when the children wish to enjoy their vacation period.

WHEN General Humidity is in the saddle one feels the heat more keenly. A hot, sticky day is trying on the nerves.

Whirl of Modern Life Demands More of Women

Wholesome Outdoor Life Fulfills the Need, Says Explorer

MRS. CARL AKELEY

"TO SAY that the modern girl is not the girl of our grandmother's day is to speak the truth," says Mrs. Carl Akeley, widow of Carl Akeley, famous African explorer, and herself a noted mountain climber and explorer.

"What is more, the girls themselves would not want to be. The new freedom of their sex in the world of business and sport has given rise to many new and difficult problems which modern educators are only just beginning to fathom.

"With this change in their requirements the young and growing girl needs a rugged physique, not necessarily of the muscular type, but built on a solid foundation. This activity of the modern girl has to a great degree replaced the former cultivation of purely social charms which were the 'open sesame' of a generation ago."

No better example can be found than that supplied by the experiences of Mrs. Akeley herself, through which she gained the outdoor knowledge which she is passing on to so many growing girls in her summer camp activities.

At a time when few of the so-called weaker sex were active in the harder phases of the outdoors Mrs. Akeley, then Mary L. CANZONERI'S IDEA TO WHIP FIELD HAS GIVEN RESULTS

WILL BRING ANY CHAMPION TO HIS SENSES

TONY NOW FACES PROBLEM OF DECIDING WHICH CHAMPION TO FIGHT

BOTH SAMMY MANDELL AND TOD MORGAN ARE EAGER FOR BOUTS

By BERT DEMBY
(United Press Staff Correspondent)

Chicago, June 18. — "Whip the field and you won't have to ask for a match with the champion."

Tony Canzoneri, smiling little New York Italian, expounded that philosophy here five months ago. Then he went out and whipped the field and today events have proven he was doubly right for Tony is faced with the problem of deciding which one of two champions he wants to fight.

Both Sammy Mandell, lightweight champion, and Tod Morgan, the 130 pound title holder, want to stake their titles in fights here this summer. Promoter Paddy Harmon would like to put Canzoneri on with Morgan since Tony is a natural 130 pounder but the little Italian doubtless can have a Mandell match if he wants it.

For a boxer, Canzoneri's philosophy has been peculiar. He has gone along on the theory "I had a title (he was featherweight champion), and I've made twice as much money since I lost it. I'd rather fight the junior lightweights often and if I beat the whole gang I can make them come after me for a match with the champion.

"And when they come after you, they pay a lot more than when you go after them."

Tony went to the top of the 130-pound field by whipping Joey Sangor, Armand Santiago, Ignacio Fernandez, Andre Routis and several others. Except for Routis, he beat them all decisively, and he doubtless would be a favorite to win over Morgan here since Sangor won a decision from Tod shortly before Tony flattened Joey.

Every fight in which he appeared this winter was a "sell-out" and he headlined the one bill which filled the new Chicago stadium, seating 23,000.

RAILROADERS SCALP JOE GUYON'S ALL STAR INDIANS

TURN TABLES ON FAST TRAVELLING BALL TEAM, 8 TO 3

RICHMOND HOLDS THE REPUTED HEAVY SLUGGERS AT BAY; LOCALS NEVER HEADED

LOOM, JARBOE AND PETERSON GO WILD, COLLECTING NINE HITS BETWEEN THEM

Joe Guyon and his teammates will have to grow new heads of hair just as soon as they can if they are to meet any more fast ball teams, for the Brainerd Northern Pacific boys have their scalps dangling on their belts today.

The All-Star Indian team knows the pow-wow and all that sort of thing when it came to the little old friendly contest of baseball yesterday at Rosko's field the Railroaders showed even the highly touted Indian aggregation some brand new tricks of the game.

The glory of the victors went to the locals after they had smashed their way through in a cloutfest that ended 8 to 3.

Richmond who pitches sweet ball at times and then, oh, oh, was in hot weather form and held that group of descendants of the original American in tow. He was master of the situation from the start of "play ball" to "well, let's go home now." He allowed seven hits which the Indians worked the paths for three runs.

If the game had been closer Loom, Jarboe and Peterson might have been cheered by the small crowd for their hitting prowess but when the local boys are way ahead, there doesn't seem to be much enthusiasm over good sound reasonable clouts.

But those three boys went on a rampage and busted the pill for nine hits between them. And Nutting even held thumbs down for the visitors when he smacked the horse-side for a triple.

Not once through the nine innings did the Brainerd team find themselves trailing the invaders.

The box score follows:

BABE RUTH WORKS OUT WITH YANKEES

New York, June 18. — (U.P.) — The Babe's back.

Ruth, recovering from a cold, worked out with the Yankees at the stadium today before the doubleheader with the Red Sox although he didn't take part in the games.

He played first base for a while during the fielding practice, and hit two potential home runs during the batting practice.

Ruth probably will be in the lineup Friday.

Yesterday's Hero—Red Faber, veteran spitball pitcher for the Chicago White Sox, who held the leading Philadelphia Athletics to eight hits, enabling his mates to win at Philadelphia, 6 to 4.

George Uhle returned to the winning column when Detroit split a double header with the Red Sox at Boston. After losing the first game, 6 to 5, the Tigers sent Uhle in to pitch a nine hit game and won, 8 to 3.

The Chicago Cubs muffed a good chance to overtake the St. Louis Cardinals when they lost to the league leaders, at Chicago, 13 to 3. The defeat sent Chicago deeper into third place and enabled the Cards to remain atop the heap.

Pittsburgh got only six hits off May and Kolp at Cincinnati, but bunched them for two runs and defeated the Reds, 2 to 1. Kremer pitched a six hit game for the Pirates.

No other games were scheduled.

CANZONERI'S IDEA TO WHIP FIELD HAS GIVEN RESULTS

WILL BRING ANY CHAMPION TO HIS SENSES

TONY NOW FACES PROBLEM OF DECIDING WHICH CHAMPION TO FIGHT

BOTH SAMMY MANDELL AND TOD MORGAN ARE EAGER FOR BOUTS

By BERT DEMBY
(United Press Staff Correspondent)

Chicago, June 18. — "Whip the field and you won't have to ask for a match with the champion."

Tony Canzoneri, smiling little New York Italian, expounded that philosophy here five months ago. Then he went out and whipped the field and today events have proven he was doubly right for Tony is faced with the problem of deciding which one of two champions he wants to fight.

Both Sammy Mandell, lightweight champion, and Tod Morgan, the 130 pound title holder, want to stake their titles in fights here this summer. Promoter Paddy Harmon would like to put Canzoneri on with Morgan since Tony is a natural 130 pounder but the little Italian doubtless can have a Mandell match if he wants it.

For a boxer, Canzoneri's philosophy has been peculiar. He has gone along on the theory "I had a title (he was featherweight champion), and I've made twice as much money since I lost it. I'd rather fight the junior lightweights often and if I beat the whole gang I can make them come after me for a match with the champion.

"And when they come after you, they pay a lot more than when you go after them."

Tony went to the top of the 130-pound field by whipping Joey Sangor, Armand Santiago, Ignacio Fernandez, Andre Routis and several others. Except for Routis, he beat them all decisively, and he doubtless would be a favorite to win over Morgan here since Sangor won a decision from Tod shortly before Tony flattened Joey.

Every fight in which he appeared this winter was a "sell-out" and he headlined the one bill which filled the new Chicago stadium, seating 23,000.

RAILROADERS SCALP JOE GUYON'S ALL STAR INDIANS

TURN TABLES ON FAST TRAVELLING BALL TEAM, 8 TO 3

RICHMOND HOLDS THE REPUTED HEAVY SLUGGERS AT BAY; LOCALS NEVER HEADED

LOOM, JARBOE AND PETERSON GO WILD, COLLECTING NINE HITS BETWEEN THEM

Joe Guyon and his teammates will have to grow new heads of hair just as soon as they can if they are to meet any more fast ball teams, for the Brainerd Northern Pacific boys have their scalps dangling on their belts today.

The All-Star Indian team knows the pow-wow and all that sort of thing when it came to the little old friendly contest of baseball yesterday at Rosko's field the Railroaders showed even the highly touted Indian aggregation some brand new tricks of the game.

The glory of the victors went to the locals after they had smashed their way through in a cloutfest that ended 8 to 3.

Richmond who pitches sweet ball at times and then, oh, oh, was in hot weather form and held that group of descendants of the original American in tow. He was master of the situation from the start of "play ball" to "well, let's go home now." He allowed seven hits which the Indians worked the paths for three runs.

If the game had been closer Loom, Jarboe and Peterson might have been cheered by the small crowd for their hitting prowess but when the local boys are way ahead, there doesn't seem to be much enthusiasm over good sound reasonable clouts.

But those three boys went on a rampage and busted the pill for nine hits between them. And Nutting even held thumbs down for the visitors when he smacked the horseside for a triple.

Not once through the nine innings did the Brainerd team find themselves trailing the invaders.

DOG ORDINANCE FINDS OPPOSITION

Issue Stirs up Battle Between Dog Owners and Those Owning None

COUNCIL DEFERS ACTION

Bids for 2 Ton Truck Are Referred to Purchasing Committee to Check Up

Although the proposed dog ordinance was given its second reading by the city council last evening the issue will stir up a battle before its final passage or rejection it was indicated by members of the council who made the statement, when a motion to suspend the rule and lay it open for its final passage, that a large number of city residents had come to the defense of the dog and were opposed to the adoption of such an ordinance.

The proposed ordinance prohibits the running at large of all dogs in the city limits during the summer months with a fine imposed owners with failure to observe such an ordinance.

Mayor Frank E. Little settled the controversy which was imminent last evening when he requested that the council defer action on the third reading until the next regular meeting to give him additional time to investigate the ordinance.

He said he was unprepared as yet to cast the deciding vote should there be an even split on the question.

"We're getting into deep water. The people are raising cain all over town about the proposed passage of the ordinance. Several people have aproached me and asked me to vote against it," said Alderman V. E. Quanstrom.

"I, also, have received a storm of protest against the ordinance," said Alderman W. J. Lyonais.

Alderman W. J. Hall who advocated the ordinance spoke again in favor of the passage of such an ordinance.

"You'll find that the majority of people on the north side are in favor of keeping the dogs tied during the summer thus saving their gardens and protecting their property," he said.

Members of the council expressed surprise that but one citizen was present at the meeting when the ordinance came up for consideration.

That citizen, a south side resident, urged the council to pass the ordinance giving them the statement that he had lost chickens by dogs forcing their way through wire netting.

The request of Carl Wright and Mrs. A. C. Weber that the Park Board be permitted to pay the secretary Hugo Kaatz $10 a month for his services was granted.

Mr. Wright also told the council that there was considerable agitation for paving of the streets to the north and south of Gregory Park.

Appointment Approved

The council approved the appointment by Mayor Little of Hans Sande as police officer for the city of Brainerd. Mr. Sande will be uniformed and will commence his duties immediately, Mr. Little said.

Bids for the two ton truck as advertising for use in city street service were referred to the purchasing committee to check up and refer back to the next meeting.

Quinlen & Weisz, Brainerd, were the successful bidders for the contract for the painting of the outside woodwork of the city and fire halls. Their bid was for $145. Two coats of paint were specified. The council decided on lawn green color to be used.

Bids were submitted by the First National bank and the Citizens State bank, Brainerd, as depositors for city funds. The council made a division of 70 per cent to the First National and 30 per cent to the Citizens State. The banks submitted the same bids, that of: interest payable monthly on daily balances, 2 per cent; interest payable on time certificates for full six months or 12 months, same to be covered by securities to be delivered to the city treasurer, 3 per cent.

The matter of grading Rosewood street from 8th to 10th street was referred to the city engineer and street committee to make an estimate of the cost.

The council designated Ole Anderson as street foreman in place of street commissioner as he was formerly classified.

Robbins Brothers were granted a permit to show a circus here on June 25. They tendered their check for $100 with the request.

Alderman W. J. Hall advocated the prohibiting of the throwing of handbills on the streets of Brainerd.

He protested against the present method used in the distribution of handbills which resulted in the littering of streets with paper.

"My attention was first brought to it by a Fargo man who pointed out the accumulation of paper on the streets at the close of a business day. He stated that Fargo had passed an ordinance prohibiting it. Why should we pay a man 50 cents an hour to sweep up these handbills?" said Alderman Hall.

City Attorney D. H. Fullerton stated that there was a law in force at the present time prohibiting the throwing of anything on streets.

The matter was referred to City Attorney Fullerton and the police department.

City Engineer R. T. Campbell and the finance committee were ordered to make drainage and grade improvements on Ash avenue and Mill street.

City Attorney D. H. Fullerton made a report on the annual meeting of the League of Minnesota Municipalities convention held last week at Austin.

RECALL BUDDY INTEREST EVENT

V. F. W. Post at Hopkins Brings Back Memories of Brainerd Man in World War

CONVENTION CLOSES

Carl Jacobson Made Valiant Attempt to Save His Buddy Killed in Action

Carl B. Jacobson's valiant attempt to save his buddy shot down in action in France was recalled at the state convention of Veterans of Foreign Wars which closed yesterday at Hopkins.

Memories of the event were revived by the members of the George R. Wolff post at Hopkins.

Wolff and Jacobson were buddies in Battery A. 151st Field Artillery during the war. During a heavy bombardment on the night of August 4, 1918 Wolff was hauling ammunition up to his battery when he received the wounds that caused his death. It happened on Hill 220 in the Chateau Thierry sector. Jacobson picked him up and carried him from the field but Wolff had "gone west."

Approximately 2,000 attended the three day encampment. Mr. Jacobson returned to Brainerd early Sunday, called back on account of business.

Arthur C. Peterson, Duluth, was elected State Commander succeeding Z. L. Begin, Minneapolis.

LEGION CARNIVAL DRAWS BIG CROWD

Thousands Attend Opening Night at Ilse Field of Royal American Shows

AMUSEMENT FOR EVERYONE

Side Show Attractions of High Type; Rides of Various Descriptions, Thrill

That the showgoing public of Brainerd are hungry for open air amusements was demonstrated last night when a crowd of several thousand journeyed to the carnival lot at Ilse Field to witness the premier of the Royal American Shows. Many expressions of surprise and delight were heard on all sides and the general concensus of opinion was that the shows are the best that have ever been brought to Brainerd.

The claims of advance agents as to the excellence of the organization they represent can usually be discounted but it is a pleasure to say that the advance reports of the Royal American were not exagerated in any detail. The shows are all that was claimed for them and far far above the average. There is not one attraction which is not of sterling worth and of a character which may be visited by any one. On entering the midway one is instantly impressed by the brilliant illumination of all shows and rides. Thousands of lights of all colors harmoniously blended, serve to pep up ones spirits and induce a festive mood.

The first attraction is the Giant Twin Ferris Wheel which is the first one ever constructed and was built especially to the order of the management of the Royal American. Then the ever present Merry Go Round upon which kids, young and old, disported themselves on the wooden chargers, the young ones getting new thrills and the old ones reviving thrills of childhood. The Whip is next in line and was kept busy from an early hour till late at night. The Caterpillar is there to furnish thrills without spills and the Lindy Loop which gives the sensation of actually looping the loop with all the attendant kick. The Merry Mix Up is an Up High ride from which an aviators view of the Pleasure Zone may be had.

The feature ride of the ensemble however is the Dragon which is without a doubt the largest portable riding device ever carried by a travelling show. With a frontage of over a hundred feet and towering 40 feet into the air, with mammoth jaws working and enormous body writhing and twisting the Dragon is a fearsome monster in appearance but a most satisfactory thrill producer.

Among the many shows which are offered for the amusement of the public are Laughland where a laugh a second is the rule, The Coney Island Circus Side Show where will be found among other strange sights, Rex, the half man, born without hands or legs who waits upon himself with almost as much ease as a normal person. It is worth more than the price of admission just to see Rex roll a cigarette. Those who consider themselves unlucky should certainly pay Rex a visit.

The Buggy Ride is hard to class; whether it is show, ride or fun house is difficult to say as it embodies all three. However it's lots of fun and may be enjoyed time after time. Jolly Irene, the fat girl assisted by Brother Jack, entertains with a mind reading act and her rendition of the Charleston is a revelation. Pal the Mystery Girl is a problem. Many guesses are ventured as to how it is done, nearly all far from the actual facts. The Monkey Circus is a mecca for old and young. Here will be found many monks of many kinds but the chief attraction is the mother and babe which was born during the shows engagement in St. Cloud last week. Some of the most cuirous mistakes of nature will be found in the Freak Animal Show which include freak horses, cows, cats, chickens, and the hardest animal freaks of all to find, Andy Gump, the dog with the real Gump jaw.

Outlaws presents lifelike figures of most of the countries notorious outlaws and lawbreakers. This is an object lesson which should be visited by every one both young and old. In this day of lawlessness when crime seems to be the rule, rather than the exception, and youthful minds are so easily swayed for good or bad. Outlaws is a sermon on the futility of trying to beat the law.

Miss Elsie Calvert Rainbow Revue was a delightful surprise. After witnessing some of the so-called Girl Shows that have been foisted upon an unsuspecting public by other travelling organizations, after listening to the cry of the barker "for ladies, gentlemen and children" and then to witness some of the rotten, indecent performances they have presented it is a pleasure to say that Miss Calvert's show is the cleanest, best and most pretentious that has ever been seen in this city. The girls are beautifully and tastefully dressed and the Rainbow Ramblers, a red hot orchestra, are way ahead of any heretofore heard with any carnival.

Taken as a whole there is not one fault to find with the ensemble of the Royal American Shows and patrons may be assured of an enjoyable evening spent on the "pleasure zone."

NATURALIZATION LAW AMENDMENTS

Fee for Declaration of Intention $5 Filing of Petition for Naturalization, $10

W. A. M. Johnstone, clerk of the district court, was in receipt today of the following, amendments made to the present naturalizaton law which are effective July 1, 1929:

Aliens who arrived in the United States prior to June 3, 1921, and where no immigration record of their entry into the United States could be located may, after July 1, have a record established and registry of entry made. They should appear before the District Director of Immigration having supervision over immigration matters in the county wherein they reside. This office will, upon receipt of application, give them full information.

The requirement of one year's residence in the state in which naturalization is sought has been amended to require only six month's residence in the county in which naturalization is sought continuously and immediately preceding the date of filing the petition. The balance of the required five years spent outside of the county may be proved by depositions. Depositions are to be taken without cost to petitioner by members of the naturalization force.

On and after July 1, the fee for the making of a declaration of intention will be $5.00; the filing of a petition for naturalization $10.00. Fee should be collected by the clerks of court before starting to execute either the declaration or petition, as they will be held rigidly accountable therefor.

Persons desiring certified copies of certificates of naturalization for passport or consular purposes may obtain same by making application to these headquarters and forwarding a fee of $10.00. Application should be accompanied by two photographs 2½ by 2½ inches, unmounted, printed on thin paper with light background, clearly showing a full front view of the features of the applicant without a hat, and shall be taken within 30 days of the date therein furnished. Each copy of the photograph shall be signed by the applicant in such a manner as not to obstruct the features. Snap shots, group photographs, full length photographs, etc., will not be accepted.

On and after July 1, persons claiming derivative citizenship through naturalization of their father or husband, etc., and desiring a certificate of naturalization for their own use, may secure same after they have attained the age of 21 years, by making application through this service, producing the necessary proof and paying a fee of $10.00 therefor. The application should be accompanied with photographs as outlined in the preceding paragraph.

On and after July 1 next, aliens desiring to make declaration or file petition for naturalization must attach to the form A-2213 of from A-2214 two photographs as above described; one photograph will be attached to the triplicate declaration, and the other to the duplicate declaration. With petitions filed, one photograph will be attached to the original certificate, and the other to the duplicate certificate; photographs to be attached so that the seal impressed will cover a portion of the photograph without mutilating it in any manner.

Members of the council expressed surprise that but one citizen was present at the meeting when the ordinance came up for consideration.

That citizen, a south side resident, urged the council to pass the ordinance giving them the statement that he had lost chickens by dogs forcing their way through wire netting.

The request of Carl Wright and Mrs. A. C. Weber that the Park Board be permitted to pay the secretary Hugo Kaatz $10 a month for his services was granted.

Mr. Wright also told the council that there was considerable agitation for paving of the streets to the north and south of Gregory Park.

Appointment Approved

The council approved the appointment by Mayor Little of Hans Sande as police officer for the city of Brainerd. Mr. Sande will be uniformed and will commence his duties immediately, Mr. Little said.

Bids for the two ton truck as advertising for use in city street service were referred to the purchasing committee to check up and refer back to the next meeting.

Quinlen & Weisz, Brainerd, were the successful bidders for the contract for the painting of the outside woodwork of the city and fire halls. Their bid was for $145. Two coats of paint were specified. The council decided on lawn green color to be used.

Bids were submitted by the First National bank and the Citizens State bank, Brainerd, as depositors for city funds. The council made a division of 70 per cent to the First National and 30 per cent to the Citizens State. The banks submitted the same bids, that of: interest payable monthly on daily balances, 2 per cent; interest payable on time certificates for full six months or 12 months, same to be covered by securities to be delivered to the city treasurer, 3 per cent.

The matter of grading Rosewood street from 8th to 10th street was referred to the city engineer and street committee to make an estimate of the cost.

The council designated Ole Anderson as street foreman in place of street commissioner as he was formerly classified.

Robbins Brothers were granted a permit to show a circus here on June 25. They tendered their check for $100 with the request.

Alderman W. J. Hall advocated the prohibiting of the throwing of handbills on the streets of Brainerd.

He protested against the present method used in the distribution of handbills which resulted in the littering of streets with paper.

"My attention was first brought to it by a Fargo man who pointed out the accumulation of paper on the streets at the close of a business day. He stated that Fargo had passed an ordinance prohibiting it. Why should we pay a man 50 cents an hour to sweep up these handbills?" said Alderman Hall.

City Attorney D. H. Fullerton stated that there was a law in force at the present time prohibiting the throwing of anything on streets.

The matter was referred to City Attorney Fullerton and the police department.

City Engineer R. T. Campbell and the finance committee were ordered to make drainage and grade improvements on Ash avenue and Mill street.

City Attorney D. H. Fullerton made a report on the annual meeting of the League of Minnesota Municipalities convention held last week at Austin.

RECALL BUDDY INTEREST EVENT

V. F. W. Post at Hopkins Brings Back Memories of Brainerd Man in World War

CONVENTION CLOSES

Carl Jacobson Made Valiant Attempt to Save His Buddy Killed in Action

Carl B. Jacobson's valiant attempt to save his buddy shot down in action in France was recalled at the state convention of Veterans of Foreign Wars which closed yesterday at Hopkins.

Memories of the event were revived by the members of the George R. Wolff post at Hopkins.

Wolff and Jacobson were buddies in Battery A. 151st Field Artillery during the war. During a heavy bombardment on the night of August 4, 1918 Wolff was hauling ammunition up to his battery when he received the wounds that caused his death. It happened on Hill 220 in the Chateau Thierry sector. Jacobson picked him up and carried him from the field but Wolff had "gone west."

Approximately 2,000 attended the three day encampment. Mr. Jacobson returned to Brainerd early Sunday, called back on account of business.

Arthur C. Peterson, Duluth, was elected State Commander succeeding Z. L. Begin, Minneapolis.

LEGION CARNIVAL DRAWS BIG CROWD

Thousands Attend Opening Night at Ilse Field of Royal American Shows

AMUSEMENT FOR EVERYONE

Side Show Attractions of High Type; Rides of Various Descriptions, Thrill

That the showgoing public of Brainerd are hungry for open air amusements was demonstrated last night when a crowd of several thousand journeyed to the carnival lot at Ilse Field to witness the premier of the Royal American Shows. Many expressions of surprise and delight were heard on all sides and the general concensus of opinion was that the shows are the best that have ever been brought to Brainerd.

The claims of advance agents as to the excellence of the organization they represent can usually be discounted but it is a pleasure to say that the advance reports of the Royal American were not exagerated in any detail. The shows are all that was claimed for them and far far above the average. There is not one attraction which is not of sterling worth and of a character which may be visited by any one. On entering the midway one is instantly impressed by the brilliant illumination of all shows and rides. Thousands of lights of all colors harmoniously blended, serve to pep up ones spirits and induce a festive mood.

The first attraction is the Giant Twin Ferris Wheel which is the first one ever constructed and was built especially to the order of the management of the Royal American. Then the ever present Merry Go Round upon which kids, young and old, disported themselves on the wooden chargers, the young ones getting new thrills and the old ones reviving thrills of childhood. The Whip is next in line and was kept busy from an early hour till late at night. The Caterpillar is there to furnish thrills without spills and the Lindy Loop which gives the sensation of actually looping the loop with all the attendant kick. The Merry Mix Up is an Up High ride from which an aviators view of the Pleasure Zone may be had.

The feature ride of the ensemble however is the Dragon which is without a doubt the largest portable riding device ever carried by a travelling show. With a frontage of over a hundred feet and towering 40 feet into the air, with mammoth jaws working and enormous body writhing and twisting the Dragon is a fearsome monster in appearance but a most satisfactory thrill producer.

Among the many shows which are offered for the amusement of the public are Laughland where a laugh a second is the rule, The Coney Island Circus Side Show where will be found among other strange sights, Rex, the half man, born without hands or legs who waits upon himself with almost as much ease as a normal person. It is worth more than the price of admission just to see Rex roll a cigarette. Those who consider themselves unlucky should certainly pay Rex a visit.

The Buggy Ride is hard to class; whether it is show, ride or fun house is difficult to say as it embodies all three. However it's lots of fun and may be enjoyed time after time. Jolly Irene, the fat girl assisted by Brother Jack, entertains with a mind reading act and her rendition of the Charleston is a revelation. Pat the Mystery Girl is a problem. Many guesses are ventured as to how it is done, nearly all far from the actual facts. The Monkey Circus is a mecca for old and young. Here will be found many monks of many kinds but the chief attraction is the mother and babe which was born during the shows engagement in St. Cloud last week. Some of the most cuirous mistakes of nature will be found in the Freak Animal Show which include freak horses, cows, cats, chickens, and the hardest animal freaks of all to find, Andy Gump, the dog with the real Gump jaw.

Outlaws presents lifelike figures of most of the countries notorious outlaws and lawbreakers. This is an object lesson which should be visited by every one both young and old. In this day of lawlessness when crime seems to be the rule, rather than the exception, and youthful minds are so easily swayed for good or bad. Outlaws is a sermon on the futility of trying to beat the law.

Miss Elsie Calvert Rainbow Revue was a delightful surprise. After witnessing some of the so-called Girl Shows that have been foisted upon an unsuspecting public by other travelling organizations, after listening to the cry of the barker "for ladies, gentlemen and children" and then to witness some of the rotten, indecent performances they have presented it is a pleasure to say that Miss Calvert's show is the cleanest, best and most pretentious that has ever been seen in this city. The girls are beautifully and tastefully dressed and the Rainbow Ramblers, a red hot orchestra, are way ahead of any heretofore heard with any carnival.

Taken as a whole there is not one fault to find with the ensemble of the Royal American Shows and patrons may be assured of an enjoyable evening spent on the "pleasure zone."

NATURALIZATION LAW AMENDMENTS

Fee for Declaration of Intention $5, Filing of Petition for Naturalization, $10

W. A. M. Johnstone, clerk of the district court, was in receipt today of the following, amendments made to the present naturalizaton law which are effective July 1, 1929:

Aliens who arrived in the United States prior to June 3, 1921, and where no immigration record of their entry into the United States could be located may, after July 1, have a record established and registry of entry made. They should appear before the District Director of Immigration having supervision over immigration matters in the county wherein they reside. This office will, upon receipt of application, give them full information.

The requirement of one year's residence in the state in which naturalization is sought has been amended to require only six month's residence in the county in which naturalization is sought continuously and immediately preceding the date of filing the petition. The balance of the required five years spent outside of the county may be proved by depositions. Depositions are to be taken without cost to petitioner by members of the naturalization force.

On and after July 1, the fee for the making of a declaration of intention will be $5.00; the filing of a petition for naturalization $10.00. Fee should be collected by the clerks of court before starting to execute either the declaration or petition, as they will be held rigidly accountable therefor.

Persons desiring certified copies of certificates of naturalization for passport or consular purposes may obtain same by making application to these headquarters and forwarding a fee of $10.00. Application should be accompanied by two photographs 2½ by 2½ inches, unmounted, printed on thin paper with light background, clearly showing a full front view of the features of the applicant without a hat, and shall be taken within 30 days of the date therein furnished. Each copy of the photograph shall be signed by the applicant in such a manner as not to obstruct the features. Snap shots, group photographs, full length photographs, etc., will not be accepted.

On and after July 1, persons claiming derivative citizenship through naturalization of their father or husband, etc., and desiring a certificate of naturalization for their own use, may secure same after they have attained the age of 21 years, by making application through this service, producing the necessary proof and paying a fee of $10.00 therefor. The application should be accompanied with photographs as outlined in the preceding paragraph.

On and after July 1 next, aliens desiring to make declaration or file petition for naturalization must attach to the form A-2213 of from A-2214 two photographs as above described; one photograph will be attached to the triplicate declaration, and the other to the duplicate declaration. With petitions filed, one photograph will be attached to the original certificate, and the other to the duplicate certificate; photographs to be attached so that the seal impressed will cover a portion of the photograph without mutilating it in any manner.

Daphne by HAZEL LIVINGSTON

CHAPTER XLIX.

RALPH read the wire and handed it back to Daphne. "It's too bad, but I don't know what you can do about it."

His eyes, that had been laughing, were suddenly cold and hard. They swept around the hall, appraising the little group that had been admiring Daphne. Mrs. Spellman was conscious of her feet, in Mr. Spellman's slippers, Mrs. Halliday began to back up the stairs, Viola oozed toward her green velour curtain, and old Mrs. Hinckle with a loud rattling sigh and a mumbled "Ach, Gott!" shuffled toward the kitchen.

"Let me see the wire, honey," Flora said.

"Father seriously injured in fall Mrs. Haines prostrated by shock Come at once," the telegram read. It was signed Mary Turner.

"That's Mrs. Turner, our neighbor," Daphne explained dully. "Something terrible happened or they wouldn't have sent for Mrs. Turner and me . . . I wonder . . ." what time does the next bus go . . ."

Flora and Ralph exchanged glances. Ralph put his hands in his pockets and leaned against the wall with an air of patient waiting. "Listen honey" Flora began coaxingly, her long arms wrapped around the girl's shaking shoulders. "I think Mr. McKevitt is right. There isn't anything you can do, and tomorrow will be plenty of time to see about it. Now you run along, and don't think about it at all and I'll wire this Mr.Turner—"

"That's fine," Ralph said, beginning to brighten. "Hurry along and get your wraps. . . . You do look beautiful, Daphne . . . honestly, I never saw you look so wonderful. Run along—we've got to get going——"

"Yes, you'll be late," Flora murmured, pushing her toward the bedroom where the spanish shawl lay draped in state on the back of a chair.

But Daphne turned right around like a Jack in the Box, and came back to Ralph. "I'm so sorry, but I can't go. I can't really. I've got to go home. I wish I knew when the bus—"

"Tomorrow is time enough. Don't be crazy, Daphne. This is something special tonight, it isn't as if it were an ordinary Saturday night hop. They're counting on me—we're late now——"

"But when somebody is dying. Ralph . . . oh don't think I don't want to go. I've counted on it so much. I wanted it more than I've wanted anything in all my life." She plucked at the tulle skirt. "And I'm all ready, with my new dress——" Her voice broke. She couldn't go on.

"Then for heaven's sake, move! Get your coat!"

"I can't—don't you see? I've got to——"

"Make up your mind, for the ove of Mike, Daphne——"

"I've got to go home!"

* * *

was Flora who found out the e the bus left, and Flora who d the cab to take her to the depot.

"You really couldn't expect him drive me home, he had to go to he party," Daphne said. "It's a very special party, a reunion. You couldn't expect him——"

"I wouldn't expect anything of that bird," Flora snarled, stuffing Daphne's limp arms into an old blue dress she found in the closet, and looking around for a coat and hat. "Hog!"

But Daphne didn't have the energy to protest. She took her purse and her gloves, and went out to the waiting taxi. She kept her eyes turned away from the tulle dress on the bed, she was afraid that if she looked at it she would cry.

"If she's got a papa why ain't he sent some telegrams a long time ago?" old Mrs. Hinckle was asking the roomers.

"Sh-h." Viola warned. "Here she comes!"

They all kissed her goodbye. It was as if they didn't expect to see her again. Viola felt the worst. She went in and cried over the dress, leaving limp spots in its crispness where her teardrops fell.

* * *

The bus stopped with a jerk. The driver got out and handed Daphne the old straw suitcase that Flora had hastily packed. "Anyone to meet you, Miss?" he asked. It was such a lonely place to leave a girl at midnight.

"No, but I haven't far to go," she answered, and smiled back at him reassuringly. She was always so pathetically pleased when people were kind to her.

He touched his cap, and got back in his place. "Goodnight!" he said.

"Goodnight!"

The bus was gone. She was alone on the highway. On each side the orchards stretched, ghostly and white in the moonlight Blossom time. The fragrance of a million waxy white flowers was heavy in the air. She set the suitcase in the road and leaned against a fence for a moment, to pull herself together.

Back home again. After a year. Last Summer she had walked down this same road, all alone, carrying the suitcase. Now she was coming home, coming back just as she went away . . . all alone . . .

There were lights all over the house. It looked as it used to look in the days when Crystal had her parties. But there was no sound of merriment, no laughter, no music. A sort of waiting hush lay over it. Her footsteps sounded loud on the long, deserted porch. The door was unlatched. she pushed it open gently.

Mrs. Turner was just coming down the stairs, a medicine glass and a spoon in her hand.

"Are you the nurse?" she began. and then she saw it was Daphne. "Bless your heart! Who'd have expected you in the middle of the night?" she cried, and took the girl into her motherly arms. It was Daphne's welcome home.

"How's my father? Oh, Mrs. Turner, is he very bad?"

"Oh, very!" Mrs. Turner answered. She was a big, hearty Englishwoman, who didn't believe in mincing matters. And privately she didn't see how Old Man Haines' fate could affect his daughter very much, after the way he'd treated her, poor child!

"What—what happened?"

"Fell out of a tree. Pruning. He let the regular crew go long before they had finished, and last month he got rid of the man Dick. I can't think what possessed him. Climbing ladders at his age. The doctor says he broke his back. They haven't told Mrs. Haines yet, but he can't live. She's carrying on something dreadful. But I mustn't keep you, you'd better see him while he's conscious——"

For a minute she was afraid the girl was going to faint, she looked so white and drawn. "Why, your hands are like ice. Come, I'll fix you some hot tea in the kitchen!"

But Daphne was already halfway up the stairs. "I'm all right. I am, really, Mrs. Turner!" And then she remembered something. Something she had forgotten in the stress and excitement of her homecoming. Mrs. Haines' letter, her repeated warnings not to write to him, not to try to see him.

"Mrs. Turner," she asked, "did my father know you were sending for me?"

"Bless you, no. He's been raving on about God and his first wife till really I hardly blamed Mrs. Haines for carrying on——"

"He doesn't know?"

"Of course not. We didn't consult him. Mrs. Haines just threw up her hand and said, 'Send for the children,' so we——"

"Then it isn't any use my going in," Daphne said, and sat down on the stairs.

It took all Mrs. Turner's powers of persuasion to get Daphne upstairs. "There's no use of my going, Mrs. Turner—it might make him worse. He said he never wanted to see me again. I just came because I thought he—he changed his mind——"

"You'll find he's changed his mind, all right," Mrs. Turner said grimly. "He's had plenty of time to change it, lying out there with a broken back all afternoon. Just put your head in the door and see what he says; there's a sensible girl——"

And in the end, that was what she did.

In the pink shaded night light surrounded with the chintz and pink silk with which Adelina had draped the big front bedroom, he looked grotesquely wrinkled and old. He lay like a log, silent and motionless under Adelina's lace spread, and not even the pink shaded light could dissemble the sooty pallor of his waxy face. Death's hand was already upon him.

He didn't seem surprised to see her. It was as if he had been expecting her. His eyelids flickered. "That you, Daphne?" he whispered.

"Yes, father," and she came and stood by the bed, not trusting herself to speak.

Long minutes passed. He was mumbling under his breath . . . "ye who do earnestly and truly . . . was always good . . . Adelina . . . bought her . . . everything . . ."

She moistened his lips with the water at his bedside and he smiled and said in almost his natural voice, "You got the money I sent?" He seemed so anxious that she nodded, and lied to please him. "Yes, I got it, Father," and he smiled, and mumbled, but nobody could understand what he was trying to say, though the doctor and Mrs. Turner who had followed Daphne into the room, did their best, thinking it might be important.

TERRIFIC HEAT ENGULFS AREA IN LAST 48 HOURS

3 PERSONS DEAD, 13 OTHERS PROSTRATED IN NEW YORK CITY

5 MORE PERSONS DROWNED; THERMOMETER MAXIMUM 80 DEGREES

New York, June 18—(UP)—With three persons dead and 13 others prostrated in the terrific heat in the past 48 hours, the metropolitan area entered its fifth day of summer warmth with no prospects of immediate relief.

Five more persons were drowned yesterday. Jumping to a maximum of 80 degrees just before noon, the mercury remained at that mark until dusk.

Boston, June 18. — With seven deaths already attributed directly or indirectly to the heat during the past 24 hours, this section of the New England coast remained today in the grip of another heat wave. Yesterday's maximum temperature was 90.

Detroit, Mich., June 18—Two persons died here in the second hot wave of the season when the thermometer climbed to 97 yesterday.

Daphne by HAZEL LIVINGSTON

CHAPTER XLIX.

RALPH read the wire and handed it back to Daphne. "It's too bad, but I don't know what you can do about it."

His eyes, that had been laughing, were suddenly cold and hard. They swept around the hall, appraising the little group that had been admiring Daphne. Mrs. Spellman was conscious of her feet, in Mr. Spellman's slippers, Mrs. Halliday began to back up the stairs, Viola oozed toward her green velour curtain, and old Mrs. Hinckle with a loud rattling sigh and a mumbled "Ach, Gott!" shuffled toward the kitchen.

"Let me see the wire, honey," Flora said.

"Father seriously injured in fall Mrs. Haines prostrated by shock Come at once," the telegram read. It was signed Mary Turner.

"That's Mrs. Turner, our neighbor," Daphne explained dully. "Something terrible happened or they wouldn't have sent for Mrs. Turner and me . . . I wonder . . .; what time does the next bus go . . ."

Flora and Ralph exchanged glances. Ralph put his hands in his pockets and leaned against the wall with an air of patient waiting. "Listen honey" Flora began coaxingly, her long arms wrapped around the girl's shaking shoulders. "I think Mr. McKevitt is right. There isn't anything you can do, and tomorrow will be plenty of time to see about it. Now you run along, and don't think about it at all and I'll wire this Mr.Turner—"

"That's fine," Ralph said, beginning to brighten. "Hurry along and get your wraps. . . . You do look beautiful, Daphne . . . honestly, I never saw you look so wonderful. Run along—we've got to get going——"

"Yes, you'll be late," Flora murmured, pushing her toward the bedroom where the spanish shawl lay draped in state on the back of a chair.

But Daphne turned right around like a Jack in the Box, and came back to Ralph. "I'm so sorry, but I can't go. I can't really. I've got to go home. I wish I knew when the bus—"

"Tomorrow is time enough. Don't be crazy, Daphne. This is something special tonight, it isn't as if it were an ordinary Saturday night hop. They're counting on me—we're late now——"

"But when somebody is dying. Ralph . . . oh don't think I don't want to go. I've counted on it so much. I wanted it more than I've wanted anything in all my life." She plucked at the tulle skirt. "And I'm all ready, with my new dress——" Her voice broke. She couldn't go on.

"Then for heaven's sake, move! Get your coat!"

"I can't—don't you see? I've got to——"

"Make up your mind, for the love of Mike, Daphne——"

"I've got to go home!"

* * *

It was Flora who found out the time the bus left, and Flora who called the cab to take her to the bus depot.

"You really couldn't expect him to drive me home, he had to go to the party," Daphne said. "It's a very special party, a reunion. You couldn't expect him——"

"I wouldn't expect anything of that bird," Flora snarled, stuffing Daphne's limp arms into an old blue dress she found in the closet, and looking around for a coat and hat. "Hog!"

But Daphne didn't have the energy to protest. She took her purse and her gloves, and went out to the waiting taxi. She kept her eyes turned away from the tulle dress on the bed, she was afraid that if she looked at it she would cry.

"If she's got a papa why ain't he sent some telegrams a long time ago?" old Mrs. Hinckle was asking the roomers.

"Sh-h." Viola warned. "Here she comes!"

They all kissed her goodbye. It was as if they didn't expect to see her again. Viola felt the worst. She went in and cried over the dress, leaving limp spots in its crispness where her teardrops fell.

* * *

The bus stopped with a jerk. The driver got out and handed Daphne the old straw suitcase that Flora had hastily packed. "Anyone to meet you, Miss?" he asked. It was such a lonely place to leave a girl at midnight.

"No, but I haven't far to go," she answered, and smiled back at him reassuringly. She was always so pathetically pleased when people were kind to her.

He touched his cap, and got back in his place. "Goodnight!" he said.

"Goodnight!"

The bus was gone. She was alone on the highway. On each side the orchards stretched, ghostly and white in the moonlight. Blossom time. The fragrance of a million waxy white flowers was heavy in the air. She set the suitcase in the road and leaned against a fence for a moment, to pull herself together.

Back home again. After a year. Last Summer she had walked down this same road, all alone, carrying the suitcase. Now she was coming home, coming back just as she went away . . . all alone . . .

There were lights all over the house. It looked as it used to look in the days when Crystal had her parties. But there was no sound of merriment, no laughter, no music. A sort of waiting hush lay over it. Her footsteps sounded loud on the long, deserted porch. The door was unlatched. she pushed it open gently.

Mrs. Turner was just coming down the stairs, a medicine glass and a spoon in her hand.

"Are you the nurse?" she began, and then she saw it was Daphne. "Bless your heart! Who'd have expected you in the middle of the night?" she cried, and took the girl into her motherly arms. It was Daphne's welcome home.

"How's my father? Oh, Mrs. Turner, is he very bad?"

"Oh, very!" Mrs. Turner answered. She was a big, hearty Englishwoman, who didn't believe in mincing matters. And privately she didn't see how Old Man Haines' fate could affect his daughter very much, after the way he'd treated her, poor child!

"What—what happened?"

"Fell out of a tree. Pruning. He let the regular crew go long before they had finished, and last month he got rid of the man Dick. I can't think what possessed him. Climbing ladders at his age. The doctor says he broke his back. They haven't told Mrs. Haines yet, but he can't live. She's carrying on something dreadful. But I mustn't keep you, you'd better see him while he's conscious——"

For a minute she was afraid the girl was going to faint, she looked so white and drawn. "Why, your hands are like ice. Come, I'll fix you some hot tea in the kitchen!"

But Daphne was already halfway up the stairs. "I'm all right. I am, really, Mrs. Turner!" And then she remembered something. Something she had forgotten in the stress and excitement of her homecoming. Mrs. Haines' letter, her repeated warnings not to write to him, not to try to see him.

"Mrs. Turner," she asked, "did my father know you were sending for me?"

"Bless you, no. He's been raving on about God and his first wife till really I hardly blamed Mrs. Haines for carrying on——"

"He doesn't know?"

"Of course not. We didn't consult him. Mrs. Haines just threw up her hand and said, 'Send for the children,' so we——"

"Then it isn't any use my going in," Daphne said, and sat down on the stairs.

It took all Mrs. Turner's powers of persuasion to get Daphne upstairs. "There's no use of my going, Mrs. Turner—it might make him worse. He said he never wanted to see me again. I just came because I thought he—he changed his mind——"

"You'll find he's changed his mind, all right," Mrs. Turner said grimly. "He's had plenty of time to change it, lying out there with a broken back all afternoon. Just put your head in the door and see what he says; there's a sensible girl——"

And in the end, that was what she did.

In the pink shaded night light surrounded with the chintz and pink silk with which Adelina had draped the big front bedroom, he looked grotesquely wrinkled and old. He lay like a log, silent and motionless under Adelina's lace spread, and not even the pink shaded light could dissemble the sooty pallor of his waxy face. Death's hand was already upon him.

He didn't seem surprised to see her. It was as if he had been expecting her. His eyelids flickered. "That you, Daphne?" he whispered.

"Yes, father," and she came and stood by the bed, not trusting herself to speak.

Long minutes passed. He was mumbling under his breath . . . "ye who do earnestly and truly . . . was always good . . . Adelina . . . bought her . . . everything . . ."

She moistened his lips with the water at his bedside and he smiled and said in almost his natural voice, "You got the money I sent?" He seemed so anxious that she nodded, and lied to please him. "Yes, I got it, Father," and he smiled, and mumbled, but nobody could understand what he was trying to say, though the doctor and Mrs. Turner who had followed Daphne into the room, did their best, thinking it might be important.

Christens Crack Train

Pretty seventeen-year-old Wilma Stein, of Seattle, Wash., was chosen to represent and christen the "New Olympian," new crack train operating between Seattle and Chicago in 61½ hours. The beauty and grace of Miss Stein are symbolic of the handsome lines of the new express, which she sent on its way with a parting message.

CLOUDBURST AT ALBION, NEV.

ONE PERSON DROWNED, HOMES FLOODED, PROPERTY DAMAGE HEAVY

Albion, Neb., June 18.—(UP) — One person was drowned, homes were flooded, and heavy property damage was suffered when a cloudburst swept Boone county today.

Donald Green, 23, was drowned when he fell into the rushing waters while attempting to rescue people from their flooded homes. His widow and baby survive him.

Named by Drake

The name "Golden Gate" was given to the entrance to San Francisco bay by Sir Francis Drake about 1578.

TERRIFIC HEAT ENGULFS AREA IN LAST 48 HOURS

3 PERSONS DEAD, 13 OTHERS PROSTRATED IN NEW YORK CITY

5 MORE PERSONS DROWNED; THERMOMETER MAXIMUM 80 DEGREES

New York, June 18—(UP)—With three persons dead and 13 others prostrated in the terrific heat in the past 48 hours, the metropolitan area entered its fifth day of summer warmth with no prospects of immediate relief.

Five more persons were drowned yesterday. Jumping to a maximum of 80 degrees just before noon, the mercury remained at that mark until dusk.

Boston, June 18. — With seven deaths already attributed directly or indirectly to the heat during the past 24 hours, this section of the New England coast remained today in the grip of another heat wave. Yesterday's maximum temperature was 90.

Detroit, Mich., June 18—Two persons died here in the second hot wave of the season when the thermometer climbed to 97 yesterday.
